A researcher investigated coding in short-term memory using the same participants in both conditions.

- In the first condition, he read out a list of 10 different sounding words.
- In the second condition, he read out a list of 10 similar sounding words.

The researcher recorded how many words participants recalled correctly in each condition.

Table 1 Mean number of words recalled and standard deviations

	Different sounding words	Similar sounding words
Mean	7.1	4.6
Standard deviation	1.9	0.6

Sherry can remember her tenth birthday party when she was on holiday in France. During this holiday her father taught her how to swim. Although it took time for her to learn, she barely has to think about how to swim now. Sherry can also remember the French words for the food she ate while they were in France, even though she did not speak any French before the holiday.

With reference to Sherry's experiences, explain three different types of long-term memory.
